EVENTS in New York make Republicans cheerful. The legislature, Republicans in control, decides to investigate New York City and all its doings. Thanks to prohibition - bootleg corruption in courts, police and elsewhere, they will find plenty to investigate.

The governor of the state has requested Mr. Walker, mayor of the city, to reply to charges made against him. The mayor will do that when he ends his rest in California.

GANGSTERS in New York and points west know the sorrow of being "damned if you do, and damned if you don't."

New York's gangster record yesterday was four dead, two others shot. All the killings were routine affairs, except that of Gangster Grimaldi. Police had recently questioned him concerning two murders. This worried him, and when higher-up gangsters that employed him ordered him to attend to another execution he, according to the police, "welched" on their orders. He was "put on the spot" and butchered as a warning to hired killers that they must kill as ordered.

Discipline is a great force in war, politics, religion or crime.

URGE PAYMENT OF $6,013 DUE CHARITY FUND

Welfare Activities in Critical Stage as $1,800 Shortage Looms.

SUBSCRIPTIONS UNPAID

Need $2,600 To Continue Work During April, Officers Report.

Charity activities of the Marion Community Fund are at a critical stage because of unpaid subscriptions, it was announced today following the last meeting of the year of the general committee last night at the Marion club.

Facing an immediate deficit of $1,800 and needing $2,600 to carry on the work of the Family Welfare society for April, members of the committee voted to continue the activities of the Fund for the rest of the fiscal year. However, the committee officers pointed out it will be necessary to collect the unpaid subscriptions which now total $6,013.62.

Urge Payment

To solve the situation, the fund officials are urging all persons who have not paid their subscriptions to contribute as soon as possible. All contributions made from the present on will be turned over to the Family Welfare society which has handled charity work here this year.

The original allowance to the charity division of the Fund has been overdrawn to take care of needy families, reports submitted indicated. Originally the budget was drawn to give the charity division $7,120. Since that time two increases of $1,285 and $630 have been granted and bills due next week will create a deficit of $1,800.

Funds now available will permit the final payment of allowances due the various agencies of the Fund. Cash on hand March 24 totaled $4,495.68. Agencies will receive $3,865.25 in April. This leaves a balance of $630.43.

Amount To Fall Short

The balance in the Fund after the payment of money due agencies in April plus $500 in special charity donations make a total of $1,130 available at the present. This amount, the reports said, will fall short by $1,800 to meet the bills of the Welfare society now coming due. An extra $2,600 will be needed to continue the relief work in April.

The Welfare society has been carrying a much heavier load than was anticipated by the committee, officers said. In addition to $9,035 spent at the present time, the society has distributed donated clothing with a replacement value of between $40,000 and $50,000. At the present time the society itself is caring for 246 families. Their needs include food, fuel and clothing.

Members of the fund committee feel that it will be impossible to discontinue welfare work in view of the large number of families needing aid. Dropping of the Welfare society's activities would throw a burden upon the city which it would be unable to meet, they said.

Frank D. Glosser, president of the general committee of the Community Fund, presided at last night's meeting. Nearly 50 of the 90 members were present.

OFFICER WHO HALTED GERMAN ATTACK DIES

Rear Admiral Plunkett, Silencer of Enemy's "Big Berthas," Passes Away.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 25—Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, whose efforts silenced "Big Bertha's bombardment of Paris during the World war, is dead at 67, a victim of heart disease. He passed away in the naval hospital here last night.

In command of the naval railway battery, he shattered the morale of the German army by putting powerful battleship rifles on wheels and trundling them up to wreak havoc along the front lines.

His persistence and aggressiveness resulted in placing of the "battleships on wheels," five mobile units supporting as many 14-inch naval rifles, in strategic positions. They formed a battery of long range guns called "America's answer to the big Berthas."

Admiral Plunkett, born in Washington, Feb. 15, 1864, the son of an army major, graduated from the naval academy in 1884. He had 48 years of service and was retired for age on Feb. 15, 1928.

The distinguished service medal, the rank of commander of the legion of honor, and the Portuguese order of the tower and sword were awarded him, along with a citation, for his war record.

His widow and son survive.

Shortly before his retirement from the Navy because of age on February 15, 1928, when he became 64 years old, Admiral Plunkett became conspicuous because of his declarations for preparedness for war with all nations.

IGNORES OFFER OF BODYGUARD

Ohio Legislator Not Alarmed Over "Capone's" Demand for Apology.

DECIDES LETTER PHONEY

Accuses Fellow Member of House of Writing It in Chicago.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—Representative William H. Schweikert, Democrat of Lancaster, ardent foe of prohibition and one of the most picturesque figures in the lower house of the assembly, ignored the entreaties of his colleagues today to appoint a bodyguard as protection against a purported threat in a letter received by him.

Schweikert revealed yesterday that he had received a letter on stationery of the Congress hotel, Chicago, postmarked March 12, and signed "Al Capone," in which an apology was demanded for Schweikert's use of the name of the Chicago gang leader during debate in the house over a prohibition measure.

The Lancaster man accused William J. Zoul Democrat of Cleveland of writing the letter while on a legislative junket to Chicago about the time it was mailed. Zoul denied authorship and offered to aid Schweikert in obtaining a bodyguard.

Other Democratic members offered to serve on the bodyguard or to act as legal adviser in negotiations with Capone or in settling Schweikert's estate.

Franklin County Grand Jury Hears Conflicting Reports on Origin of Fire.

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—The Franklin county grand jury today resumed its investigation of the Ohio penitentiary fire last April which took the lives of 322 prisoners.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Joseph D. Clear was called as the first witness in the inquiry. He presented two reports on the origin of the fire, one calling it incendiary and the other naming four convicts who are believed to have started the blaze.

Three prison employes and convicts followed Clear on the witness stand. Others were to be called before the grand jury today, according to Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins.

Hoskins said he had not decided whether the jury would be taken to the scene of the blaze. The jury has blueprints of the cellblocks involved in the investigation.

Warden P. E. Thomas will testify during the course of the investigation. Names of prison inmates testifying were being kept secret.

LABOR LEADERS PROTEST

State Federation Secretary Sees Danger of Usurping Local Officers.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—Creation of a state highway police system was up to the Ohio house of representatives today as a result of action last night of the house motor vehicles committee in recommending adoption of the Jones bill.

The committee voted the bill out over the protest of the Ohio Federation of Labor. Thomas J. Donnelly, secretary of the federation, said the bill establishes a state constabulary under a new name. He claimed it would create a superpolice force over local authorities.

James A. Jones, Republican of Ravenna, author of the bill, presented representatives of the Grange, Farm Bureau and Ohio Retail Council in favor of the measure.

Proposed Size of Force

The bill provides a force of 50 to 300 men with general police powers, but prohibits using them in labor disputes. The system would be under a department of public safety to be composed of the directors of highways, and agriculture, commissioner of motor vehicles, conservation commissioner and state forester.

A superintendent to be named by the board with executive approval would be charged with operation of the force. He would receive a salary of $4,000 a year.

Patrolmen would be appointed by the superintendent and all expenses of administration and salaries would be paid from the state general revenue fund.

SUNDAY MOVIE BILL WINS IN SENATE VOTE

Proposal To Legalize Shows on Afternoons of Sabbath Partly Enacted.

FINAL VOTE UP TO HOUSE

Senate Also Passes Measure To Change Canal Route into Highway.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—Approved by the Ohio senate, the house today had before it a bill legalizing operation of motion picture theaters on Sunday afternoons.

For several years efforts to obtain legalization of Sunday afternoon movies has failed in the Ohio legislature. The senate, however, voted yesterday 23 to 1 to pass the bill introduced by Senator L. L. Marshall, Republican of Cleveland, legalizing Sunday afternoon exhibits.

A number of senators from rural districts voted for the bill. The dissenting vote was cast by Senator T. E. Williams, Democrat of Mercer county.

Would End "Hypocrisy"

In urging passage of the bill, Senator Marshall declared it is "hypocritical" for the state to go ahead prohibiting Sunday afternoon movies "when as a matter of fact 90 per cent of the seating capacity of all theaters in the state operate on Sunday in defiance of the law." Operation on Sunday forenoons still would be prohibited under the bill.

The senate also passed a bill sponsored by Senator D. H. De Armond of Butler county, providing for abandonment of the Miami and Erie canal for canal purposes between Toledo and Middletown, and authorizing its use for a super highway between the Ohio river and Lake Erie. The proposed portion to be abandoned embraces 175 miles. Portions beyond Toledo to the lake and between Middletown and Cincinnati had been abandoned for highway purposes by previous legislation. The bill now goes to the house.

The senate also voted an amendment of the inheritance tax law increasing exemptions for widows, widowers and children from $5,000 to $10,000 and for fathers, mothers, lineal descendants and adopted children from $3,500 to $5,000.

Included in bills passed by the house and sent to the senate were ones providing penalties for persons using slugs or manufacturing slugs to be used in pay telephones; exempting proceeds of life insurance payable to others than the estate of the deceased from the inheritance tax, and providing for payment of dog taxes at the same time other taxes are paid.

BROTHERS IDENTIFIED BY TRIAL WITNESS

Defendant Named as Man Who Fled Subway After Lingle Shooting.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 25—The state pressed forward today in its effort to convict Leo V. Brothers of St. Louis of the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, with testimony already in the record from one witness naming Brothers as the man who ran out of the pedestrian tunnel in which Lingle was slain, last June 9.

This testimony came from Warren Williams, one time a Michigan City, Ind., policeman who pointed out Brothers in the crowded courtroom and said he saw him run out of the tunnel and disappear down an alley immediately after the Tribune reporter had been shot in the back of the head.

"I heard a muffled report and almost immediately saw a man run out of the east side entrance to the tunnel, cut across Michigan avenue through the traffic and reach the corner across the street from me," said Williams when he appeared yesterday as one of the state's principal witnesses.

The witness testified that he never saw Brothers from the time of the slaying until last Jan. 11.

"On that day," he said, "I was taken to the Del Prado hotel and peering through a slit in some cheesecloth rigged across a door, saw him and knew he was the ... who fled from the tunnel. I ... before the grand jury ... day." Under cross ... Williams' story was ...

TAMMANY LAYS PLANS TO FIGHT CHARGES

New York Political Bosses Prepare To Meet Attack of State Legislature.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 25 — Tammany made plans today to meet the attack launched in Albany by the legislature's decision to investigate the city's official life.

Mayor Walker is to leave Palm Springs, Calif., Sunday and return home five days before he planned. Governor Roosevelt is expected to regard the charges of the city affairs committee against the mayor as independent of the impending legislative inquiry. The governor still is awaiting the mayor's answer to the charges.

Defender "Booed"

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for District Attorney C. T. Crain in the governor's investigation of Crain's conduct in office, undertook a defense of Walker in a speech last night before the League for Political Education. There was laughter and boos. He argued that a breakdown in some city departments could not be blamed on Mayor Walker and the district attorney any more than the president and attorney general of the United States were to be held responsible for the breakdown in the prohibition enforcement.

Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia in Washington declared the legislative investigation would "unearth a system so corrupt as to be beyond control and curbing of any one city official even if he wanted to break it."

Untermyer and Max D. Steuer are mentioned as likely possibilities on a committee of attorneys to guide Tammany.

Tammany has a plan for a board of strategy to aid office holders who may come under legislative scrutiny.

If the legislative committee should attempt private hearings, Tammany, it is understood, would challenge in the courts its right to subpoena witnesses and compel testimony.

Members of the legislative committee are yet to be appointed. Estimates are that its actual work will start in about a month.

CONSPIRACY BLAMED FOR POTTER DEATH

Cleveland Prosecutor Outlines Case of State Against "Pittsburgh Hymie."

DEATH PENALTY SOUGHT

Defendant Retains Composure as Trial for Slaying Gets Under Way.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., March 25—Accusing "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin as a "hired assassin" of former Councilman William L. Potter, Prosecutor Ray Miller opened his attack in Martin's trial here today. The state will seek conviction of Martin on a charge of first degree murder, and will ask a penalty of death.

Defense Attorney William E. Minshall in a contrasting statement to the jury said evidence "will point so strongly to somebody else" that an acquittal of Martin will be the only possible verdict.

Miller, in his opening statement said Potter was "put on the spot" by a man or group of men who desired his death. "Hired assassins carried out the plot. Martin was one of them," the prosecutor said.

The east side apartment where Potter's body was found Feb. 8, was rented especially for the killing and Martin was its tenant, Miller told the jury.

Courtroom Crowded

"Whether Martin was in the apartment when the killing was committed is unnecessary to the establishment of the state's case," the prosecutor said.

The courtroom was filled to capacity as the opening arguments began. A majority of the spectators were women.

Martin, seated at a table with his attorneys, seemed calm and composed.

"It is the claim of the state that the evidence points directly to Martin," Miller told the jury. "He was the man who rented the death suite. And the key was given him by Fred Laub, the custodian, when he rented the flat, was found on the inside of the locked door of the suite.

"That key asserts the guilt of Hyman Martin," the prosecutor said.

Conspiracy Charged

"The man who desired Potter's death is known to Martin," the prosecutor continued, "and the evidence will show he was hired by someone in Cleveland."

Miller has repeatedly intimated the killing was connected with Cleveland's playground swindle which sent one councilman and his son to the penitentiary and which threw suspicion on several other persons prominent in Cleveland's politics. However, no proof of such connection has been revealed.

Miller charged that Martin was registered at the Auditorium hotel here from Feb. 1 until 6:30 p. m., Feb. 3. This claim of the state had been held in secrecy. The murder, Miller told the jurors, was committed between 7:15 p. m. and 7:30 p. m., on the latter date.

Electric Chair Is Goal

Although Miller told the jurors there are no eye witnesses to the killing, he will ask them to send Martin to the electric chair.

The prosecutor's opening statement exposed a secret of the state—a claim that Martin and his sweetheart "Akron Mary" Outland, were registered at the Auditorium hotel here until 6:30 p. m. Feb. 3.

Miller said Potter was killed about 45 minutes later, and that thereafter Martin fled to Akron and subsequently to Pittsburgh.

Miss Outland, mysterious figure of the murder investigation, already has told police she left Cleveland with Martin and went to Akron early in the evening of Feb. 3.

Coroner A. J. Pearse, the first witness, was called to the stand as quickly as the opening statements of the attorneys were concluded. He testified Porter was killed by a gunshot wound in the head, and described another wound on Potter's skull as probably made by the butt of a gun.

Pearse brought into the courtroom the overcoat and hat worn by Potter. There were bullet holes in both.

Miller handed the prisoner the gun, allegedly used in the killing and Pearse testified both fitted on its handle matched the hair of Potter's head.

Meyer Weisman, furniture dealer, who found the alleged death weapon near the scene of the murder, told of its discovery and said he gave it to Patrolman Harry Miner.

Miner, who was discharged from the police department because he sold the gun home and kept it several days without reporting it said the handle was stained with what appeared blood.

ATHLETICS FAVORITES TO WIN PENNANT

PRESBYTERIANS BEAT REFORMED 31-13 TO WIN TOURNEY TITLE

Y-County Cage Tournament Closes with Quartet of Fast Games.

First Presbyterian Sunday school demonstrated last night on the Y. M. C. A. floor that it is master of any Marion Sunday school basketball team by trouncing the First Reformed church team 31 to 13. The game was the class A championship contest in the annual Y-County tournament. First Reformed had battled its way to the finals with some good basketball but folded up completely against the Presbies and took a sound drubbing.

Reformed started the game with a rush but failed to gain any advantage by the wild tactics. The Presbyterians with their usual efficient defense and passing game broke up the majority of the scoring attempts of Reformed. The score at the first period stood 6-5 for Presbyterians and the lead was increased to 13-7 by half-time.

Presbies Win Easily

In the second half the Presbies completely routed the losers. Play was fast and rough with numerous fouls being called, the larger share of them on the Reformed team.

The championships of classes B, C and D were also decided last night on the Y court. Class B was won by the Harding High school Vocational team, which defeated the Spartan A. C. 22 to 20 in an overtime game. Central Junior High won the class C game from Vernon Heights Junior High by an 18 to 15 score. The class D championship went to Vernon Junior varsity which was winner over Y-Pioneers 21-8.

Vocationals Win

The class B and C divisions were hard fought. Harding Vocational saw a comfortable lead disappear in a late rally by the Spartan five and as a result had to play three minutes extra time to decide the title winner. A basket late in the overtime period provided the two point margin of victory for the Vocational quintet.

Vernon Heights put up a good battle against Central Junior, holding the mid-town five on nearly even terms the entire game. Vernon threatened to deadlock the count late in the fray but Central managed to stop most of the scoring efforts of the Vernon Heights team.

Numerous Stars Entered in Cage Tourney Here

COLORFUL players will not be lacking from the lineups of the 29 teams entered in the North central Ohio amateur basketball tournament which will get under way in The Star auditorium Thursday at 7 p. m. and continue until the championship game Saturday night. Some of the best known players in this section will appear in the lineups of the various teams. Many have played on local floors either this season or in previous years while others will be playing their first game before Marion cage patrons.

Topping the list of stars who have cavorted on local courts this season will be Eddie Plank and Bus Woodward who will appear in the lineup of Wile's Collegians of Columbus. Plank and Woodward played in the Bliss college lineup that defeated the Shovel Y-Indus club here earlier in the year. Both are stellar performers.

Gene Mechling, Capital university star, may also play with Wile's Collegians. Mechling is another clever performer. He was one of the high scorers of the Ohio conference this season.

Barberton Strong

Barberton Moose is also bringing a team to the tournament which fairly sparkles with stars. Four Kaiser brothers, all possessing good records in past games will play here and promise to make it interesting for opponents. The Barberton five was runner-up in a similar tournament in Sebring, O., recently.

Bob Hagans, the Columbus North High star who almost single-handed eliminated Marion Harding High school from the district class A tournament at Delaware in 1930 will play with the Columbus Unions in the tourney. Hagans is a star of the first water, his specialty coming under the head of scoring at long range. He is an accurate shot from long range. Carl Ehrensberger, another former North High star will also play with the Unions.

Local Stars In

Out-of-town stars are not the only ones who will get a chance to crash the limelight of the tourney. A large number of the best court performers in Marion will compete. The Y-Indus club with Roush and Cram as its leading players will play. Walter Sage and Milt Pohler of the championship Presbyterian Sunday school team will play with the Smart & Waddell team as will Ben Gilmore and Johnnie Gillis. The Whiteamire twins of Caledonia, both clever players, will play with the Martel Independents. Dick Porter, brilliant Green Camp star, will play with the Green Camp Independents.

All in all it looks like the a first class tournament. Action should be the password from start to finish.

ANDY KERR NAMED

Western Reserve Offers Colgate Coach Head Football Post.

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., March 25 — Andy Kerr, whose Colgate university football machines have lost but two games in two years, can become head coach at Western Reserve university if he says the word.

Kerr has been officially offered the position as Reserve's first major step in its athletic reorganization program. He said he would decide upon the offer, which he termed "very good," next week after he consults Colgate athletic authorities. He still has one year of a three-year contract left at the eastern school.

Reserve's coaching status has been a muddle since early last fall when Gordon Locke was forced by illness to resign as coach. Under the proposed reorganization, Kerr would devote his attention almost exclusively to football with Locke remaining as athletic director.

U. B. Basketball Team Enters Tournament

The United Brethren basketball team will compete Saturday in the annual church cage tournament at Westerville. Teams representing churches of Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Pennsylvania will take part in the Westerville games.

The drawings for the tourney have not been announced yet.

DEMPSEY DISQUALIFIED

By United Press.

CHICAGO, March 25—The Illinois Athletic commission ruled last night that Jack Dempsey was not qualified to officiate in this state because he has no license here and would have to be a legally established resident for at least one year before he could obtain one. Both Tuffy Griffiths and Tommy Loughran wanted him to referee their fight Friday night.

STILL WINNING!

French Tennis Stars Continue Defeating U. S. Players.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 25—With tennis history repeating itself and the United States losing the doubles, the star spangled forces tonight face France in the final two singles matches of the "winter Davis cup" competition expected to lose.

The score stood two to one in France's favor today with Jean Borotra, Davis cup veteran and leader of the French team, favored to defeat Berkeley Bell in one of the singles matches and clinch the victory for the tri-color.

Frank X. Shields, on the basis of the form he showed Monday night in handing Borotra a surprising straight set defeat, was favored to take Christian Boussus in the other single but to no apparent purpose other than to make the final score two to three. Borotra and Boussus defeated George Lott, Jr., and John Van Ryn in the doubles match, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4.

Grudge Fight Won by New York Welterweight

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, March 25—Paulie Walker, New York welterweight won a bitter grudge fight from Andy Divodi, also of New York in a 10-round re-match here last night, which Referee Abe Roth gave to him principally on the strength of four knockdowns.

The question of fouls, which terminated the previous match in the fourth round in Divodi's favor causing the California boxing commission to withhold the purse, cropped up repeatedly. Spectators said two of the blows which sent Divodi down bordered on the waist line.

Two Changes Recorded in A. B. C. Tournament

By International News Service.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 25—Six squads in doubles, singles and two five-man events produced mediocre bowling in the A. B. C. tournament Tuesday and only two changes marked standings today.

Barney Spinella of Brooklyn, two time all-events champion, landed sixth place in the all-events with 1,868. Eddie Reckard of Huntington, W. Va., furnished a change in the singles, tying C. Murray of Chicago, for seventh place with 684.

RECALL INJUNCTION

Court Allows Old Writ as Evidence in Dempsey Trial.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 25 — A five-year old injunction today was resurrected from the musty court files by plaintiff attorneys who are attempting to win a jury verdict of $500,000 damages against Jack Dempsey for not risking his heavyweight boxing championship against Harry Wills, the Negro challenger, in 1924.

The injunction, granted by a superior court judge in Indianapolis in 1926 to restrain Dempsey from giving any challenger but Wills a chance at his title, was admitted to the testimony of the present damage suit by Circuit Judge H. Sterling Pomeroy yesterday over objection of Dempsey's counsel.

Dempsey's attorneys, however, hopes to keep the old injunction, which failed to stop his championship match with Gene Tunney, from getting into the testimony. Judge Pomeroy advised them that if they could prove that the appellate court at Indianapolis reversed the superior court's injunction that he would not permit the injunction in the records of his court.

THREE OTHER CLUBS MAY BE CONTENDERS

Washington, Cleveland, New York Have Outside Chance of Winning.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 25—The Philadelphia Athletics, class of baseball in general and the American league in particular for two years, will start the 1931 race favored to make it three pennants in a row.

The odds in support of the A's may not be quite as long as they were a year ago, after their 1929 stampede. Observers have detected a few creaking parts in the world's championship machine guided by 68-year-old Connie Mack.

The probability is that the Athletics,, as a club, are getting no better. They were at the peak when they led the Yankees to the wire by 18 games in 1929. Last year they were pressed to finish eight games ahead of the surprising Washington Senators.

A's Are Favorites

The margin may be similar this year, if an upset is not actually sprung by one of the other contenders, but there is no substantial evidence on which to dislodge the A's as favorites.

The champions will go into action two weeks hence with their "big five" still the greatest winning combination in baseball, assuming that Al Simmons is persuaded to sign his contract in time to support the efforts of Grove, Earnshaw, Cochrane and Foxx. They have an infield combination whose ability to continue at a championship pace is probelmatical, but the essentials of punch and pitching remain.

Washington and Cleveland, the second and fourth place clubs last year, if they fulfill early prospects and continue the development manifest last year, figure to help make the race closer and more interesting than it has been in years.

Yanks Look Dangerous

The New York Yankees, under Joe McCarthy for the first time, will be dangerous at any time because of their tremendous punch, but their pennant hopes depend on finding the right infield combination and consistent pitching.

Detroit may turn up as a fifth contender for first division honors at least, especially as Bucky Harris seems to have developed some fine new material. The prospects are that the Boston Red Sox, Chicago White Sox, and St. Louis Browns will have a party of their own in the second flight.

At least five of the eight clubs have shaken up their lineups to such an extent that only the campaign itself will show how effective have been the efforts to tighten up the circuit, so completely dominated for two years by the A's. The pennant bee is busiest, perhaps, among the Washington Senators, whose drive to second place under Walter Johnson last season furnished a sensational surprise. Like the A's, Washington depends on the ability of a number of veterans to continue imbibing from the fountain of youth. A superlative pitching staff and brilliant defense, plus the all-around play of shortstop Joe Cronin, features the senatorial threat.

Cleveland Team Good

Cleveland, stressing a stronger attack, also banks on the work of a fine pitching staff headed by Wesley Ferrell but has a hole to plug at third base, vacated by Joe Sewell.

Detroit's chances seem to depend upon the ability of outfield newcomers to come through with the necessary batting punch, something the Tigers rarely have lacked over a long stretch of time.

The White Sox have a heavy enough hitting outfield, but the club's infield worries will continue unless recruits at first and short fulfill Donie Bush's expectations.

The Red Sox still have a fine pitching staff, but the supply of basehits is not likely to be adequate.

The St. Louis Browns are in a similar predicament in addition to seeking more punch, Manager Bill Killefer has a new infield combination to perfect before making any threatening gestures.

OHIO STATE STARTS SPRING GRID DRILLS

Coach Sam Willaman Has More Than 125 Candidates Working Out Daily.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—The thud of the pigskin resounded again today at Ohio State's massive stadium when Coach Sam Willaman gathered his prospective varsity football candidates together for the first spring drill of the season.

More than 125 men, a few with varsity experience, many with high school records of note, and a few with nothing in the way of former deeds on the gridiron, reported for the opening session.

Not included in the number, however, were Fesler, Larkins, Selby, Griffith, Taylor, Horn and Idle. These men played their last game for Ohio State last November and from the group of new material Willaman hopes to find their successors.

Practically the entire freshman squad, drilled last fall by Coach E. R. Godfrey, reported intact with the exception of John Hodnick of Canton, John Vargo of Martins Ferry and John Miller of Vickery Hodnick and Miller withdrew from school at the end of the winter quarter due to low grades while Vargo left voluntarily, saying he will enter Washington & Jefferson next fall.

Willaman must uncover a varsity center as Carl "Tubby" Ehrensberger, regular center and kicker, also was compelled to withdraw due to scholastic difficulties.

Spring drills will continue for a period of four weeks, one hour each afternoon being spent at practice.

HONORS ABOUT EVEN IN GRAPEFRUIT LOOP

American Circuit Leads with 15 Victories, National Has One Less.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 25—Thanks to some engaging performances by the Boston Braves, and the New York Giants, the National league had drawn up almost to even terms with the American in the annual "grape fruit league" campaign.

For those who crave the definite figures, twenty-nine inter-league games have been played so far and of these the American has won fifteen and the National fourteen.

The Braves, after taking a series of jolts on the chin, turned on the New York Yankees for a couple of victories and the Giants finally managed to get an edge on the Chicago White Sox, three wins to two.

Despite their recent setbacks, the Yankees still are the heaviest winners in the grapefruit league, with seven victories and four defeats. The Philadelphia Athletics and the Braves lead all the rest in defeats with six lickings in 11 games apiece but Cincinnati has a perfect record with four setbacks in as many starts against American league teams.

In games of all descriptions, the Boston Red Sox lead all the rest with four wins and no losses with Washington a step behind with five victories in six starts. Against major league opposition only, the Chicago Cubs are the leaders with four triumphs, all over Pittsburgh of their own circuit, and no defeats.

STOCK MARKET IS IRREGULAR

Conflicting Forces Cause Constant Shifts in Prices on Big Board.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 25 The stock market backed and filled uncertainly in a welter of conflicting forces today.

Freight car loadings and electric power production, as reported for the latest weeks made better showings than normal seasonal trends had indicated The weekly steel trade reviews however, reported the first definite half in the uptrend in steel mill activity since the first of the year Also, Westinghouse directors reduced the annual dividend rate from $5 to $4 after rumors had been circulated in connection with the recent drive against shorts that the $5 rate would be maintained

The steel trade reviews reported that the recent increase in prices for heavy lines had as yet failed to prompt any important buying "Iron Age" placed ingot output at 57 per cent of capacity unchanged from the previous week From the mixed trends in the industry, it is difficult to interpret the apparent lull, although it may reflect on a seasonal change in demand, rather than a falling off. A survey just completed for the private information of a large investment trust says that leaders in the industry expect operations to expand further in April, and at least hold their own in May, which would be distinctly encouraging, in view of the usual let down as spring advances.

Electric power production as reported for the week ended March 21, showed a smaller decline than is expected for this period, and was only 2½ cent under the like week of last year, the best comparison in recent months. But this appears primarily to reflect an increase in irrigation pumping on the Pacific coast. The gain of nearly 11,000 cars in freight cars loadings for the week ended March 14 compensates for the decline of the previous week, but the significance is difficult to determine.

Call money was again firmer, presumably reflecting government withdrawals from banks, outside offerings under the official rate of 1½ per cent virtually disappeared.

GRAIN PRICES SCORE GAINS

Wheat and Corn Higher After Slumping Lower Last Several Days.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 25—Grain prices scored material upturns early today responding to a notice that government-sponsored agencies would quote progressively higher selling quotations beginning April 1 The proposed increase would amount to ½ cents a bushel every ten days Until June 30 the end of the current crop year Opening ⅛@⅜ cents higher today wheat afterward showed some additional gain Corn started ⅛@⅜ up and also advanced further.

Not withstanding that announcement of progressively higher selling quotations by farm board allies would apply only to wheat on hand already and not to new 1931 crop yet to be harvested the bullish effect was more pronounced regarding the new crop deliveries June wheat generally reckoned an old crop delivery, showed half cent initial decline; all other deliveries scored immediate upturns ranging from ⅛ to ⅞ cents with July and September displaying the greater relative strength

Enlarged general commission house buying of wheat was in evidence, especially new crop deliveries The increased business was ascribed to greater confidence in various quarters that the wheat market hereafter would be influenced more by conditions of supply and demand rather than by legislative measures Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength and with better eastern demand for corn.

Provisions were steady, keeping in line with hog values.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

This is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel just a healing, soothing, vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" —bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c. 30c, 60c.—Adv.

Uhrichsville Mayor Proposes Garden Project To Aid Needy.

By The Associated Press

UHRICHSVILLE, O., March 25—Mayor J. W. Lytle has a new idea for relief for needy folk here.

Lytle, if he can negotiate the loan of a plot of ground of about 10 acres, will plant a civic garden, using unemployed men to do the work, and utilizing the produce for relief of the city's poor.

Annie Finds She Has Many Friends Among Star Readers

IF little Annie Rooney has as many loyal friends and well-wishers in other sections of the country as she has among readers of The Star her birthday anniversary is going to be one of the greatest occasions in her young life.

Her wish for birthday cards has already begun to get results here, with each mail bringing in greetings from readers of her daily adventures in the columns of this paper. Will it bring joy to Annie? That hardly needs an answer.

Here's the message on one card, received from a Marion friend living on Cheney avenue:

"Do I wish you a happy birthday? Most certainly I do. Do I wish you lots of gladness? Absolutely, 'cause you're YOU."

Another, an Easter greeting from one of Annie's friends living on Pearl street:

"On Easter day—From bud and brook and bird comes the Easter message; be glad, rejoice for this is the resurrection of the year."

Then a little girl in Galion sends this cheerful message:

"Oh goody! I'm glad that your birthday is here; 'cause I've wanted to write this, an' I've waited a year."

These are just samples of what the mail is bringing each day. Remember, the more there are, the merrier will be the day for little Annie.

Ohioan Tells of Riches Lost by Father's Poor Foresight

ZANESVILLE, O., March 25—A. S. Shipp, who will be 81 next April 29, sits in the living room of his simple Wayne township farm home and tells his grandchildren how he—and they—might have been rich had his father been able to see a few decades into the future.

The father, who was known as "Budd" Shipps, lived with his family on a farm near Newark, in Licking county. Back in 1834, there was a shortage of wheat among the French settlers in the Canadian territory. Bud had a good crop that year, and sold enough of it at $1.25 a bushel to realize a small "fortune" of $250—a lot of money in those days of homespuns and home-raised food.

With so much money at his command, Bud was urged by his mother to "go west" with an uncle in search of land. This he did.

He put $100 in each side of his saddle-bags and they set out into the uncharted wilderness. Their progress was slow, and they saw few human beings besides Indians along the way.

After 12 days of riding, they reached Chicago, then no more than a small trading post.

Then homesickness overtook them. The desolate trading place lost its attractiveness. Bud rejected the offer of 160 acres of land at $1 an acre, and they returned to their homes.

That land, A. S. Shipps now tells his grandchildren, lies in the very center of what came to be Chicago—the country's second largest city.

The thought of the riches that might have been his doesn't disturb Shipp. He is happy with his family and his dogs. He owns two modest valley farms, the fruit of his own labors.

"What did Bud do with the $200?" he was asked.

"Well," he said, "the girls bought hand-made riding bridles and side-saddles, calfskin shoes and ribbons."

Even in those early days, such luxuries were to be obtained at country stores, he explained.

The Stars Say--

For Thursday, March 26

THE sidereal operations for this day stress the importance of social, domestic, artistic and romantic affairs, with pronounced activity and energy expended in this direction. Likewise, there may be occasion for unusual or excessive outlay of funds in these purely personal projects. Extravagance and speculation should be shunned and precaution taken with correspondence or legal papers. Letters may bring sudden and important news.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of unusually lively and interesting social, domestic or affectional matters, with much pleasure and gratification to be found in these activities. Letters or writings may bring sudden news and there may be inclinations to extravagance and excessive indulgence in personal outlay of funds. A child born on this day may have an unusually sagacious intellect, leaning toward science and higher thought. But personal affairs in social, domestic and affectional associations may dominate its life. It may be exceedingly popular, generous and prodigal.

COUNTY AUTHORITIES INVESTIGATE HOLDUP

Warren, O., Police Hold Two Men in Connection with Fatal Robbery.

By The Associated Press

WARREN, O., March 25—Trumbull county authorities today were investigating a roadhouse holdup in which Luke Holland, 30, of Cleveland, was fatally wounded.

Leonard Gaetano, an employe of the roadhouse, operated by Charley Sedore near Hubbard, said he shot Holland as the latter, with several companions, was leaving after holding up 40 persons in the place. Holland, taken to a Youngstown hospital, died last night.

Gaetano said the holdup was the second staged by the same gang. They had robbed the roadhouse Sunday night, he said, but returned Monday night saying they had been drunk and wanted to return the money they had taken. On gaining entrance, Gaetano said they drew revolvers and lined up patrons and employes.

Gaetano got a revolver and went to the roof, firing from there as the alleged robbers ran to their automobile. Two men are held under suspicion charge.

The holdup men were said to have obtained more than $600 from patrons of the Sedore place, known as a "high hat" roadhouse frequented by well-to-do people.

BOARD'S WHEAT PLAN OUTLINED

Planting This Year To Decide Federal Sales Policy, Stone Says.

By The Associated Press

HUTCHINSON, Kan., March 25—The amount of wheat planted this year will shape to a large extent the farm board's policy for disposing of its 200,000,000 bushels of stabilization purchases.

Chairman Stone of the board, speaking today before a joint meeting of the Farmers Cooperative Grain Dealers association of Kansas and the Farmers Cooperative Commission company, said:

"What wheat growers do at planting time this spring and next fall will be an important factor in determining the sales policy for stabilization stocks."

Great interest has been expressed in how rapidly and through what channels the board would sell the cereal bought to maintain domestic prices. This was the first word in this connection since the board's announcement it would not support the market after May. In that statement it was said the stocks would be sold so as "to impose the minimum of burden on domestic and world prices."

Should plantings be smaller than usual, the board is expected to make some sales. If the opposite should prove true, it may agree to hold its wheat for an indefinite period, Stone said.

Defending resumption of stabilization operations last fall, Stone said it had been found necessary to protect the market and banks from an expected precipitate drop to a price of about 50 cents.

HOOVER ARRIVES AT FINAL PORT OF CALL

President Gets Royal Welcome on Virgin Islands; Sails Home Today.

By The Associated Press

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, March 25—President Hoover came ashore on the Virgin Islands this morning through a line of boats decorated with flowers and flags to receive an ovation from a large crowd gathered on the docks.

Going immediately to the governor's house he entered the reviewing stand to watch a colorful and interesting parade.

As the President landed guns at the naval station boomed a salute and the President's flag was run up over the governor's house.

Practically the entire population of the islands either watched or took part in the parade.

Dr. Paul M. Pearson, new governor of the Virgin islands, held a conference with the President aboard the Arizona this morning before the party disembarked for lunch.

After luncheon with Governor Pearson the President assisted at tree-planting ceremonies and paid a visit to the colonial council chamber where he received memorials, greetings and petitions from organizations of the people.

Later the presidential party was taken on a motor trip to various points of interest on the island.

The arizona was scheduled to sail homeward at 4 p. m.

EVANGELICAL CHURCH CONFERENCE BEGINS

Dr. Gerald B. Winrod in Charge of Opening Service of Series This Week.

Dr. Gerald B. Winrod founder of the Defenders of the Christian Faith movement last night preached the opening sermon of a four day conference at the Calvary Evangelical church this week. The song service was in charge of Rev. S. E. Porter of Emmanuel Baptist church.

In his sermon Dr. Winrod said, "God wrote two books, the Book of Books or the Bible and the Book of Nature. These books do not conflict with each other in any way and if there is conflict it is man made. Science instead of disproving the Bible has proved it," he said. "It is only in recent years," according to Dr Winrod, "that science has discovered what prophets back in the centuries knew several thousand years ago."

The first meeting of today was scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m. Tonight Dr. Winrod will bring the message, "The Blighting Curse of Modernism." More than 300 persons attended the opening conference.

Indian Maiden Made Rich By Oil, Finds Love Affairs Costly

By The Associated Press

MUSKOGEE, Okla., March 25—A young creek Indian woman has lost the third suit filed against her for alienation of affections since she was made wealthy by oil.

Exie Fie, whose fortune has risen and declined with the flow of wells on the rocky acres of her federal allotment, smiled as she heard a district court jury award Mrs. Jesse Adair a $20,000 verdict last night.

"I didn't want Jesse," she said "I wouldn't have the best man on earth."

Mrs. Adair, charing the Indian girl had stolen the love of her divorced husband, a former Muskogee patrolman, asked damages of $105,000. She asserted Exie had presented Adair gifts, including a motor car.

Defense attorneys, charging conspiracy, announced they would appeal. As Exie is a government ward, approval of the department of the interior would be necessary for payment.

Exie once paid Mrs. Ollie Carr $7,500 to settle a $25,000 alienation suit. She was sued by Leona McIntosh in 1928 for $200,000. Available records did not show disposition of the latter case.

16-YEAR-OLD YOUTH CONFESSES MURDERS

Missouri Boy Admits Responsibility for "One-Man Crime Wave."

By United Press

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 25—Authorities of western Missouri were astounded today over the confession of a 16-year-old boy that he had killed two men, executed numerous holdups, robbed about 100 homes and stolen several automobiles.

Prosecutor Frank C. Kirtley said a first degree murder charge would be made against the boy, Michael Burke, whom other authorities referred to as a "one man crime wave."

The boy's father, Edward C. Burke, an attorney, questioned him for several hours after he was arrested, but the youth would not add to the short confession which police said he had made.

Police said Michael admitted he killed former Constable John Brown, last Dec. 29, and John Fisher, a packing company employe, on Jan. 11. Both were slain during holdups.

Miss Minnie Wende, Fisher's companion when he was slain, identified the Burke boy as the slayer.

Action on Relief Expected

Action is expected tonight on the Keifer bill to provide a state system of unemployment relief. The measure was postponed last night after hearing arguments for and against the measure in the insurance committee, of the house.

The bill, as presented by Representative Horace S. Keifer, Republican of Springfield, is modeled after the workmen's compensation law. Persons would be required to contribute at least 26 weeks during the previous year before becoming eligible to participate in benefits from the fund which would be maintained from assessments from the employers and employes.

The house public utilities committee recommended adoption of the resolution of Lawrence A. Welsh, Republican of Steubenville, in which the assembly would call upon public utilities of Ohio to reduce their rate and cease discontinuances as much as possible in order to aid the unemployed and drouth sufferers during the period of business depression.

Advanced thinkers in Europe, led by Briand of France, wanted a United States of Europe to tear down customs barriers between different nations and create a great European United States, all states trading freely with each other.

Germany said, "All right, we shall start with Austria," and planned a trade agreement in accordance with United States of Europe ideas, making Germany and Austria the nucleus.

"Not at all," said France, and "Not at all," the other nations. "We don't want you to do that." So the United States of Europe is under a cloud.

$3,000,000,000 Trucked Over a Street.

Three billion dollars in gold, securities and currency were moved through eight blocks of lower Broadway, New York City, Sunday morning, without the loss of a penny; without the slightest attempt by gangsters or gunmen to make a "haul." Fast-moving trucks carried this mighty sum from the old vaults of the Irving Trust company in the Woolworth building that it might be deposited in the immense vault of the company in its own building at No. 1 Wall street. Something like a minute after a truck carrying an average of $8,000,000 of wealth left the Woolworth building, it was checked at No. 1 Wall street. And so the movement went on for over three hours.

That there was no interruption must not be attributed wholly to the city's freedom from a criminal element or to the fear of the law which has been inspired by the record of the New York police department. Some few precautionary measures were taken. Vehicular traffic over the eight blocks was estopped by heavy armed trucks immediately to the south of the old location of the company and to the north of the new. Similar trucks barred traffic at each cross street, all of them being manned like fortresses, and 200 men armed with rapid-fire rifles, machine guns and chemical guns patrolled the curbs along the route, to say nothing of three squads of specially-selected policemen. As a matter of fact the eight blocks of lower Broadway was like an armed camp through which no pedestrian was permitted to pass save in direct range of scores of deadly guns.

Three billion dollars constitute a sizable sum of money, and the Trust company people no doubt felt there was no use in tempting the criminally-minded by failure to make demonstration of the fact that a few little precautionary measures had been taken.

But when all is said, it's a sad commentary on the times when it is felt to be necessary to employ 200 heavily-armed men to guard the carriage of treasure eight blocks over a street of the country's metropolis.

The Country's Tangible Wealth.

The national wealth of the United States in 1929 was $361,800,000,000 and the national income $64,000,000,000; the per capita wealth that year, the latest for which figures are obtainable, being $2,977 and the per capita income, $692. These figures were given out by the National Industrial Conference Board, Inc. for publication Monday. It may be of interest to state that the most recent estimate of the national wealth made by the United States bureau of census, that of 1922, was $320,800,000,000.

As used by the National Industrial Conference board, the term, national wealth, excludes credits and securities, and includes tangible physical assets only such as lands and structures and other improvements thereon, the equipment of enterprises and farms, livestock, railroad and other public utilities land and equipment, personal property, vehicles of various kinds and gold and silver coin and bullion. The national income, the Conference board explains, is the aggregate value of all commodities produced and services rendered to which a price is commonly attached and is equivalent to the sum of the personal income of all individuals in the country, plus business savings.

For the purpose of comparison, the Conference board gave the 1929 national wealth based on the purchasing power of the pre-war dollars of 1913 as $261,700,000,000, the national income as $52,500,000,000 and the per capita income as $432.

Because of the fact that a considerable element of the national wealth is represented by United States naval vessels, privately-owned water systems and gold and silver coin and bullion which can not be allocated among the states, there is a difference between the total national wealth and the national wealth distributed by states, the latter being $355,000,000,000. This would show a gain in national wealth as distributed among the states of $168,400,000,000, or eighty-eight per cent, from the beginning of 1914 up to and including 1929, but this is a false measure. In 1914 the national wealth in 1913 dollars was $193,300,000,000 and in 1929 in dollars of the same purchasing power it was $256,800,000,000, an increase of but 32.8 per cent., and this represents the actual physical growth in national assets. On the same basis of figuring, the actual increase in national income during the fifteen-year period was but 59.2 per cent. in 1913 dollars, although in current dollars it was 153.4 per cent.

In this connection, it may be said that the less than 90,000 citizens of Nevada still lead in per capita wealth with $6,318 while the state of Mississippi comes last with a per capita wealth of $1,242, Ohio being about midway with $3,250 compared with a per capita wealth of all the country, as distributed by states, of $2,921.

The British government took, by way of death duties, $5,000,000 of the estate of the late Sir George Vernon Proctor Mills, which was appraised at slightly more than $10,000,000. Really, our tax-eaters haven't yet begun to appreciate the full possibilities of their game.

Chicago gangsters are now using steel bullets to prevent the ballistic experts from deciding from what gun, pistol or revolver they have been shot. Financed as it is, organized crime seems to be keeping just a step or two ahead of the forces of law and order.

Another Wickersham Report.

When the President's commission on law enforcement and observance issued its now-famous report on "the enforcement of the prohibition laws of the United States," the report was the biggest story of the day. Long afterward, it was the principal topic of conversation, and still holds an important place.

Contrast the keen speculation concerning the probable tone of the report on prohibition to the almost total absence of interest shown in the second report of the same commission expected shortly after April 1. Though the report deals with but one phase of a general problem—crime statistics—it is of at least half the importance of the prohibition enforcement report, since the two are closely interconnected. No other report expected to be made by a presidential commission will be of greater importance.

It is reported that the members of the commission, privately, have expressed pleasure at the approaching end of their two-year job—information the American citizen may well receive with some misgiving. It impresses the truth once more that public service can be the most thankless of jobs, demanding infinite patience and willingness to take abuse. Chairman Wickersham, for instance, whose name has been bandied about with little if any restraint—can he be blamed for welcoming the opportunity to retire into relative obscurity again?

France, Italy and Czecho-Slovakia should get next to the fact that, if they hope to keep Germany so bound as to retard or make impossible her economic recovery, they can do so only in the face of the disapproval of a fair-minded world.

Two robbers fleeing from a bank they had robbed out in Edna, Kansas, were riddled with buckshot by a World war veteran who used a magazine shotgun on them as he saw them attempt to escape with their loot. There's no getting away from the fact that a magazine shotgun in the hands of an expert can be used to mighty good advantage in the discouragement of the present-day great indoor sport.

The American Institute of Chemistry selected the seventy-sixth birthday anniversary of Andrew W. Mellon, Tuesday, to honor him and his brother, Richard B., with medals for the great work the two have done as the patrons of science. One never can tell. Here the elder Mellon has served under three presidents as secretary of the treasury and he should have been pretty well known from that, to say nothing of his long career as a banker and an industrialist, but who ever knew of him or his brother, for that matter—as a patron of science. There's a lot the world doesn't know.

GANDHI'S DISCLAIMER.

That most remarkable of Indians went to Bombay and encountered thousands of his followers and thousands of his worshipers. Gandhi told them not to be silly; that he was no god and not even a mahatma, but a mere mortal laboring for a sacred cause. And he met others at Bombay. He met the policeman who arrested him a year ago for making salt in defiance of the British salt monopoly restrictions. Gandhi asked the policeman if he would arrest him again. And the policeman replied that it would all depend on what he might say or do.

This policeman may have been a native or he may have been an Englishman, but his answer was the typical talk of a huge placid London "bobby." Yet we fancy some one will whisper in his ear not to see anything wrong even if Mr. Gandhi takes to making salt in the most public place of Bombay. Not even the great British empire is looking for another scrap with this skinny little old gentleman who wears almost no clothing and eats almost no food.

And now Gandhi has done an even braver thing. He has made an agreement with the Moslem leaders to grant them 33⅓ per cent. representation in the Indian congress though they number only one-fourth of the population.

Greater sense has been shown by no man. At Bombay he tells his disciples that it is right and proper to confer and negotiate with the British authorities since at the London round table they have upheld the principle of Indian self-government and may be persuaded to make this principle really effective.

With Gandhi sanctioning a truce and a powwow the prospect may be said to be a little brighter. But it still seems that when the conciliating process actually begins the lion's share of the conciliation must be done by the British and not by the wrinkly little Gandhi.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE VOICE OF POWER.

The other day, in Palermo park, Buenos Aires, the Prince of Wales addressed a vast concourse of people at the exhibition designed to restore Great Britain to a preeminent status in Argentina's and South America's foreign trade.

The occasion was one of pomp and splendor, yet superlatively utilitarian. It took on the aspect of a international event. But the actual physical incidents and pretensions of the opening of this tremendous spectacle, aided by every resource of propaganda by the British chamber of commerce, were made more significant and forceful by reason of the fact that England's heir to the throne spoke not alone to the thousands gathered within the sound of his voice, but to the people of the world. In England and in Spanish he told of the glories of the exhibition and the superiority and advantages of trade relationship between Britain and the commercial empires of the south.

The prince spoke into the microphone, which carried his voice through broadcasting stations in all parts of the Americas and the British empire. The King of England heard his son's voice as plainly as he could have heard it in the quietude of the royal cabinet. That voice was heard in the homes of America, from sea to sea. It suggested the intimate touch. It was as though we stood face to face with the pleader of a great cause. Under the spell of his voice his words took on a friendly, forceful meaning.

The United States can not afford to neglect, to ignore the activities of this young man. He is England's trade ambassador extraordinary. He makes what he does count. As one writer puts it, "Never has any foreign visitor to the south been as popular as the Prince of Wales, and he undoubtedly could be elected president of the Argentine republic tomorrow."

Isn't it about time we sent our Lindy or some other outstandingly popular emissary down there, backed by all that has so much aided the prince in his epochal, and, perhaps, practically successful itinerary to the treasure lands of the southern hemisphere?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Colds and Carelessness.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

At this time of the year, due to sudden changes in weather, and possibly carelessness on your part, you are likely to have an attack of laryngitis. This is an acute inflammation of the mucous membrane, or the lining of the larynx. It is usually the result of exposure to wet and cold. In many instances, it is simply an extension downward of a cold which started in the head.

It frequently follows the overuse of the voice. It was not uncommon in the late war from the inhalation of irritating gases.

Many individuals have a tendency to inflammations of the larynx. It may be one of the complications in measles, scarlet fever, chicken pox or typhoid fever.

In laryngitis there is a tickling in the throat. Cold air irritates the throat and breathing may be quite difficult. The voice is altered or may be entirely lost. Speaking is generally fatiguing and often very painful.

In adults with this condition, there is no alteration in the breathing. But in children with laryngitis, the first sign is usually that of difficulty in breathing. This is due to the inflammation of the throat but often it is so misleading as to be mistaken for croup.

In treating this condition, it is most essential that the larynx be put to rest. There must be no unnecessary talking and, above all, no smoking.

In severe cases it is best to remain in bed. The room should be kept at an even temperature and the air saturated with moisture. This is accomplished by placing a pan of water over the radiator or on the stove.

Inhalations of various prescriptions your doctor will give you are helpful in reducing the difficulty in breathing. For pain, either ice or heat may be applied to the neck. The ice bag usually gives great relief.

The more severe forms of acute laryngitis require careful watching by a physician. But these severe cases are rare.

The Limits of Life.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

There are certain questions, as yet unanswered, which appear to be of perennial interest. What is the age of the earth? Is the cosmos materially changing to an appreciable extent? Is the universe running down? When will the sun burn up and disintegrate? Is there life on other planets?

This last question, which seems to thrust itself forward on all occasions, and which may never be answered, may perhaps show that, in some subconscious way, life here is calling to life elsewhere, deep answering unto deep. Perhaps, as Harlan True Stetson suggests in his happily-conceived book, "Man and the Stars," there may be a subtle kinship between ourselves and the all but infinite universe in which we seem to play a part.

Turn a great telescope on the globular cluster of stars in the constellation, Hercules. This cluster is computed to be composed of about 100,000 suns. It is likely that there are planetary systems around some of these suns, but we can scarcely ever hope to see them. Again it is likely that some of these planets support life. Still further it is likely that there are living beings, not strikingly dissimilar for ourselves, on some of these planets. There is no valid reason in contradiction of such a plausible supposition. But of course we can not prove it now; and it is by no means certain that we shall ever arrive at certitude.

Our attention naturally concentrates itself, not on remote celestial objects, but on the planets in our own planetary system. Only two, Venus and Mars, could possibly support life at all similar to our own. Some form of life may exist on Venus, a sort of twin sister to the earth in size. It is still not determined whether Venus revolves upon its axis in a short period of time commensurate with our own day, or whether it rotates only once in its period of revolution about the sun, namely 228 days. Recent observations at the Mt. Wilson and Lowell observatories favor the former hypothesis. But we do not yet know whether oxygen is found in the atmosphere of Venus.

Much of interest has been discovered regarding the planet, Mars, but not enough to answer our question regarding life on that planet. On account of the eccentricity of its orbit, every fifteen years Mars comes within a distance of 35,000,000 miles of the earth. This enables us to make favorable observations, and to glean much information regarding Mars. For a long time it was not known whether water was found on the surface of Mars. But it is now certainly known that water vapor exists within the atmosphere of Mars. Through any good telescope it is easy to detect a small, white polar cap on Mars. This was believed by the late Percival Lowell to be an ice cap. The recent discovery of water vapor in the atmosphere of Mars lends support to the ice-cap theory.

For a long time it was thought that the surface temperature of Mars was around forty degrees below zero! No chance for Martians under those circumstances. Recent researches indicate that, contrary to all previous suppositions, certain regions of the surface of Mars attain a temperature of some fifty to sixty degrees Fahrenheit. On the temperature score, then, it has been proved that life on Mars is possible.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Abandoned City in India.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Let's go to India today. Within an hour's railroad journey from Agra stands the ancient city of Fatehpur Sikri, built in the latter part of the sixteenth century by that famous Indian potentate, Akbar the Great. For some reason, uncertain to historians, the city was abandoned within fifty years of its completion. But still it stands, almost untouched by the years, as a monument to this ruler.

The entrance to the city is through the famous "Gate of Victory." As one passes through this gate he enters a huge courtyard, the courtyard of the great mosque. This courtyard measures some 350 feet by more than 400 feet and contains two noted tombs, those of Selim Chisti and Nawab Islam Khan. Selim Chisti was a holy man of this district, and it is said by some that the city of Fatehpur Sikri was built after Akbar had gone to the holy man and asked him to pray that he, Akbar, might have a son. The son was born and named Selim and later became the Emperor Jahangir.

The tomb of Selim Chisti is a gorgeous structure of white marble. Its windows are decorated with pierced tracery of the most delicate and exquisite geometric design.

The tomb of Islam, who was the grandson of the holy man, for whom the city was built, is more sedate and sober.

History is vague and one can not say for certain why Fatehpur Sikri was abandoned. However, evidence points to a very natural and material cause—water. There is a very meager supply of water in this part of India and that which is available is of poor quality.

The most remarkable thing is that Fatehpur Sikri is in a remarkable state of preservation. It's red sandstone buildings look as if they had been but temporarily vacated. Perhaps the very dryness which made it an abandoned city is responsible for the fact that it is not a mass of ruins instead of a group of well-preserved buildings.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, March 25 — Broadway is filled with "one idea" boys. They are the lads who have written a single successful play, sold or movie scenario and ride the top wave to quick oblivion. They have a brief hour; then fade at fame again from the sidelines. But never miss.

They rarely come back. When they put over their idea and move out of a rooming-house into a de luxe hotel the army of parasites are waiting. For every pioneer blazing the new trail there are a thousand gleaners. And like the Northwest Mounted, usually "get their man."

I know a half hundred young men who dazzled the town with some particular brilliancy and came to a sudden full stop. Instead of carrying on they succumbed to the flattery of the sychophants and idled precious hours along the primrose path.

Broadway loves to elevate its idols, squeeze them dry and behold their clay feet. For the newcomer to "important money," the blandishments are difficult to resist. In the first flush of celebrity they are besieged by the fair weather friskers.

Head-waiters bestow their most sweeping bows. They are given the best tables in the cafes. Masters of ceremony introduce them. Light ladies flirt outrageously. Parties galore. Headaches. And then one day a check comes bouncing back.

So, a little burned out, they try again. But the race as usual is to the swift. One success means nothing on Broadway. To achieve permanency one must pile them up over a stretch of years. And stand by valiantly to hold place in the sun.

Nightly in the speakeasies are the rainbow chasers, growing shabbier each day. With a few free drinks they will tell you of the days when they were the fair-haired boys. And Broadway will listen, but it will also smile a very discreet "Yeah?"

* * *

Many writers, too, have been victims of the "one idea." They do not change their pace and they ride a character or a plot to a fall. One of the greatest disasters for a writer is to have a character make such a definite hit that the public wants nothing else.

* * *

The late and talented George Randolph Chester is an illustration. His "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" became a frankenstein. The public would not permit the versatile Chester to write anything else. Suddenly Wallingford and his side kick, Blackie Daw, lost their appeal. Chester, baffled, believed he was through.

* * *

After a long period in a shabby crypt of loneliness he went to the editor of a weekly magazine and asked an advance against going to Europe to write travel articles. Knowing the habits of writers, the editor asked him to try several fiction stories with an entirely new character before departing. "Then I'll fix your advance," he said.

Chester locked himself in a hotel room for six weeks and in that time wrote six stories about the motion picture business. They proved immediate hits—more amazingly successful than the Wallingford tales. But Chester died suddenly just as he was again swamped with magazine orders.

* * *

When Michael Arlen—"Mike" to his cronies—made his first visit to America seven years ago he was bewildered by his own literary achievement. He blushed and stammered when called upon to speak and seemed otherwise miserable. His recent trip revealed him as urbane as any of his Mayfair characters. He spoke over the radio, appeared in the new talkies and at banquets with perfect composure.

A Campaign Pole Story.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker in an address at the dedication of the Hayes memorial at Fremont in 1913, told the following story illustrative of the persistance of party feeling. He was a five-year-old boy living at Martinsburg, West Virginia, when the campaign of 1876 was in progress. According to the political custom of the time, two campaign poles were erected on opposite sides of the public square, one by the Republicans for their candidate, General Hayes, surmounted by a glistening globe, and the other by the Democrats for Samuel J. Tilden, surmounted by a great broom.

Being an ardent Democrat, even then, and thoroughly convinced that the principles of that party represented the truest traditions of the republic, he viewed the Democratic pole and its towering emblem with a jealous eye. He observed that when the two poles were viewed from the side of the square on which the Democratic pole stood, that pole seemed much higher than the Republican pole. What if he looked at them from the other side of the square the Hayes pole towered above the Tilden pole; and that was not to his liking.

So he acquired the custom of always taking the side of the square on which the Tilden pole stood when he passed that way, in order that he might have an assuring and comfortable view of the poles. "And the practice became such a habit with me at that early age," he said, 'that to this day when I revisit my old home in Martinsburg, I find myself taking the side of the square on which the Tilden pole stood, though long years have passed and both poles have disappeared and the memory of them remains only in my own mind."

Years passed and he was a student at Johns Hopkins when General Hayes came there to make an address. His address so impressed the young student that he was forced to inquire: "Who is this scholarly, but plain and simple man, so wise, so patriotic and so generous, and how is it that I do not know more about his services to his country?"

"EAST LYNNE" STILL FINE ENTERTAINMENT

"East Lynne is no longer a bold melodrama. Ann Harding, Conrad Nagel and Clive Brook, directed by Frank Lloyd have made it into an entertaining drama of a young girl whose life is suppressed by a sombre husband and a malevolent sister-in-law, and who turns to the arms of a former suitor for protection and the gaiety she once knew. The Palace is showing the picture tonight and Thursday.

The plot has been enlarged upon to include the Franco-Prussian war and several other scenes that are incidental and slow up the progress of the story, but through it all runs the thread of the plot of the old "East Lynne," even to the theme song, "Then I'll Remember You."

Ann Harding is a lovely "Lady Isabel." Conrad Nagel is all we ever imagined "Robert Caryle," the selfish, hard young husband whose business calls him more strongly than love for his beautiful young wife. Clive Brook is a convincing villian, not an "Ah, my proud beauty," type, but suave and debonair. Those who have read "East Lynne" know how the story goes, and those who haven't will enjoy the picture more if the plot isn't revealed.

Comedies, news reel, Edna Berns at the organ and short subjects round out the bill. H. H.

Marysville Pastor Speaks at Epworth League Dinner

REV. LEROY V. SIMMS of Marysville was the principal speaker at the young people's banquet last evening at Epworth M. E. church, sponsored by the senior league. Approximately 65 were present for the banquet and later heard his address, "The Lure of the Trail," in which he urged the point that it is essential for youth with many trails which lure ambition to follow or even blaze the right trail.

The tables at which the banquet was served, were decorated in a color scheme of green and pink. The tables were lighted with pink candles, and flowers and lamps added to the attractiveness of the church dining room. Music was enjoyed during the dinner hour.

Representatives from the senior, high school, intermediate and junior leagues of Epworth, several members from Wesley church and a group of the LaRue Epworth League members were present.

Edward Sloan, president of the senior league of Epworth, presided and Hamer D. Mitchell led in singing pep songs. The program opened with a song, "Faith of Our Fathers," followed by toasts by Miss Virginia Shipley of the high school league and Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth church. A piano duet, "Poet and Peasant" was played by Miss Mildred Rihl and Miss Elizabeth Pace.

The banquet was one of the three special young people's services at Epworth church this week. Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock Rev. E. G. Corwin of the Mt. Gilead M. E. church will speak on "Christ and the Youth of Today," and at the same time Friday evening Dr. Turley will give an address, "Christ's Challenge to the Heroic."

Rev. Simms said in part in his speech: "Wherever there is a trail there is a hero. The church occupies the most heavily bombarded sector of humanity's battlefield. Youth must assume a mighty responsibility in solving the social problems before us.

"There are three things that youth can do. Give up and quit, dig in and hold the fort; give the finest intelligence to solving the problems that face the church and society. The outcome is largely one of tomorrow's leadership and thus presents a challenge to today's youth." In closing Rev. Simms challenged the youth to follow the trail of the Master and create new frontiers in industry, social relations and religion.

Arrangements for the banquet were in charge of Miss Esther Williams, Miss Kathryn Gelbaugh, Miss Della Larson and Edward Sloan. Guests present were Rev. and Mrs. Simms, Dr. and Mrs. Turley, Rev. C. A. Hughes and members of the LaRue league, and members of Wesley and Epworth leagues.

Youngstown, Ohio — "Before the arrival of my little girl I was miserable, rundown, nervous, could not eat if I did I could not retain the food my stomach was so weak. As soon as I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I began to improve, it relieved me of the weak stomach, my nerves quieted down, I gained strength and kept well up to the last. I had a very fine, healthy baby—she has never had any sickness. I am sure the baby is benefited as well as the mother when 'Favorite Prescription' is used." Mrs. A. J. Anderson, 156 Kenmore Ave.

You'll Enjoy Wearing Glasses

Strange though it may seem, most people who wear glasses enjoy them. It is a most pleasant sensation to see clearly, distinctly, and without effort. Properly fitted glasses are never annoying. They are promptly forgotten by the wearer who, after the first few hours, does not even feel them on the face. Modern glasses are good looking. Most people look better with glasses than without them.

For TEETHING troubles

FUSSY, fretful . . . . of course babies are uncomfortable at teething time! And mothers are worried because of the little upsets which come so suddenly then. But there's one sure way to comfort a restless, teething child. Castoria — made especially for babies and children! It's perfectly harmless, as the formula on the wrapper tells you. It's mild in taste and action. Yet it rights little upsets with a never-failing effectiveness.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given to tiny infants—as often as there is need. In cases of colic and similar disturbances, it is invaluable. But it has every-day uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever older children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset, a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

CHAPTER 21

A Scrap of Paper"

CHARTERS paused for a moment and scrutinized the face of Mr. James before he smiled.

"A friend of mine"—he began—"Maude Lauderdell nowadays knows a lot about me—I worked with her once—a great chance of big money, looked to me as the right man for the job, sagacious and with the facilities for the job. I decided at once . . . an absolutely good job. Now, does it occur to your bright brain that this nice little pound job was all the more fun the fact that not a soul in the world could possibly know I had got a job? . . . .

"The idea had come into Maud's mind. Maud had got it to mine and I took to a horse that's never been known. Why, she didn't even have to pay the fee in words. . . . .

"Can you see any good reason why I should not shout it to MacAdoo and Fanny, and Louise and you? Not that I suggest that any member of our splendid team would ever be careless, but accidents happen in the best regulated families. A remark overheard—and then two and two put together and made into five and then the fat's in the fire.

"Of course, I trust each one of you as I trust myself, but if six people know a thing, there's three times as much chance of an accident as there is if only two know it. . . ."

The face of Mr. James retained its unpleasant expression, and his skeptical silence gave no consent to the doctor's platitudes.

"And," continued Dr. Charters, "might I now ask how you presume to think you know that the 10,000 wasn't going into the pool?"

"Oh?" sneered Mr. James. "Oh? Then how was 5,000 of it going into Manoel's pouch, as soon as he got wise to the game? 'All going into the pool!' . . . Like hell it was."

"Ho! Ho! So you've been talking to Manoel, and you've been thinking again. But thinking isn't your strong point, Jimmy."

"Can the funny stuff and answer a plain question," growled Mr. James. "Where did I come in, if Manoel was to go 50-50 because he caught you out?"

"Do you want to sit there and tell me you think I'd reward him with 5,000 pounds? Like hell I would."

"You stopped his mouth, eh?" inquired Mr. James. "Put him off with a promise that you'd shut his mouth with a wad of $25,000, eh?"

"You've said it," smiled the doctor.

"So? And where does all this lovely trust and fair-play come in, then?"

"Jimmy, you make me tired. Once again, who's running this outfit, you or I? If Manoel's fool enough to butt-in on my game . . . our game . . . aren't I free to put him off how I like? What's biting you? You don't want to start something when I'm at my wit's end over this infernal Waye. That man'll succeed in breaking this firm up, if we aren't careful— especially with you helping him by playing his game of sowing suspicion among . . ."

"Playing his game!" exclaimed Mr. James indignantly. "What about you playing his game by letting him come here, threaten us, fool us, rob us, and get away with it. . . .

"But you don't pull wool over my eyes like that . . . Say, now, suppose all that bunk—about meaning to pool that 10,000—is the goods, why must you cut it right out because Waye put Manoel wise? . . ."

"Can't you see that that's the most disturbing and frightening thing in the whole world for us?"

The doctor, with outstretched finger, pointed at the face of his young colleague.

"Get this, James. And then try to realize what it means. Waye never in his life set eyes on Maud. Not a living human being except her and me had the glimmering of an idea of the Lauderdell scheme. It only existed in her brain and mine . . . And what follows: Mr. Mysterious Waye drops in on Manoel, and not only sells him the plot, but mentions the exact sum that I'm to get! . . ."

The doctor threw himself back in his chair.

"God bless my sinful soul," he concluded explosively. "I begin to think the man's from Scotland Yard—or else the Archangel Gabriel."

"Bump him off, I say" growled Mr. James.

"It would do us a lot of good, wouldn't it, if a detective from Scotland Yard disappeared here. Better for us if it was the Archangel. Less likely to be missed."

"Put me wise on the whole story anyway," continued Mr. James. "What's the Maud female get, that she can slip us $50,000?"

"Well—Maud ropes a steer called Lauderdell. Not much to him except that he's going to be Sir Something Lauderdell when the old guy dies. Maud's sick of the racket and wants to retire in the odor of sanctity among the London Four Hundred.

"But there's not more money than will keep up the old Tudor place. Then what does Maud find?

"Lauderdell's brother has died and left Lauderdell this girl Marjorie for keeps, and 100,000 pounds. Marjorie can't touch this until she comes of age. If she dies before she's 21, Brother Lauderdell scoops it."

"And if she marries?"

"Nix till she's of age," replied the doctor.

"What a wicked will," observed Mr. James indignantly. "Didn't the guy want the poor girl to live to be 21?"

Dr. Charters smiled.

"Well, you see, he trusted Brother Lauderdell . . . and rightly. There isn't enough money in the world to make him hurt a hair of the girl's head.

"Soon Maud comes to see me. She's worried about her husband's niece, who lives with them. Such a lovely girl . . . so rich, if she lives to be 21. Quite sad to see her health failing like this. And mind you, Maud might have said it to Sir Bernard Matthieson like she said it to me. Well, as Maud describes the symptoms, the illness sounds like recurring attacks of arsenic. And so they are.

"Maud and Lauderdell bring her and I put her in Manoel's care for special treatment. She's to be the one case we lost, after devoted care. That's all Manoel knows—that she's to get a quite complete and final cure for all her aches and pains."

"Second or third time Maud and Lauderdell come Maudie reminds me how dreadful it would be if the poor child died within a few weeks of her birthday when she would come into 100,000 pounds — and I tell you, Jimmy, we talked as though reporters were in the room."

"Anyhow she offered you 10,000 pounds in plain English, I suppose?"

"No. Nothing was said that Scotland Yard mightn't have listened to. She took out her little book and wrote the sum in figures. She passed it to me, and, with a glance and a nod, Maud and I had made a solid contract, because our word to each other is 10 times as good as our bond."

"And what did you do with the piece of paper?"

"I chucked it in the waste-paper basket."

"You chuckled it in the waste-paper basket. And, you blasted fool, that's how Waye got the . . ."

"What would a little piece of paper with five figures on it tell him, my clever Jimmy?" interrupted the doctor.

"Then how did he get to know?" he asked.

"You tell me that, and you shall have the whole 10,000 for yourself, Jimmy."

"But I thought you're giving the whole thing up?" expostulated Mr. James.

"I am. It's far too dangerous while Waye is here. No I'm not going to lose out now—now that I've made good. Not for 10,000 pounds—nor for a million. I'm never going back to the crook-life, Jimmy—now I'm out of it and safe."

"You're losing your nerve."

"Better than losing my life. I've had a rope round my neck once, Jimmy."

Gassy Stomachs Made Well

Every person who is troubled with gas in the stomach and bowels should get a package of Baalmann's Gas Tablets and see how quickly they will relieve all distressing symptoms.

Sharp pains in the abdomen or about the heart are often due entirely to gas pressure. Sometimes the circulation is restricted, causing the hands and feet to grow numb. Usually there is much gurgling or rumbling in the bowels. Many sufferers complain of a gnawing feeling in the stomach, extreme nervousness, heartburn, drowsiness after eating, headaches, dizzy spells or labored breathing.

Baalmann's Gas Tablets taken at meal time not only prevent all bad effects from gas, but they invigorate the weak nerves of the stomach and assist in restoring the whole digestive system to proper working order.

Genuine Baalmann's Gas Tablets—in the yellow package—can be obtained at any good drug store. Price $1 everywhere.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

ALWAYS when me and Jubilee wake up on Wednesday morning I think how Wednesday is the middle day of the school week, and of how when it is gone more than half of the school week will be gone, and that always makes me feel good, so I pushed Jubilee out of bed with my foot when I woke up this morning and I let him down and hurried into my short britches and everything, and when I had got my work done and was feeding my face, my mother was talking about our tree out in front, and the telephone men had cut a big branch half in two up near the top so that it was hanging straight down from a place out about three feet from the tree, and was dead, and she said she would have to get someone to saw it off so that it wouldn't look so bad.

My unkle said the telephone company ought to tend to it, but when he got back from town he would saw it off for her if he could find an extension ladder in the neighborhood. I told him Banty's father, who is a painter has got one and us kids would bring it when we came from school. He looked kinda disappointed but had to say that would be all right. So when school left out we went and got it, and we all got in between the rounds and hung onto the sides and played we were the fire department going home, and he was there. He got our old saw, and he stood both ladders up together and pushed one up as high as it could reach, and two hickeys on the bottom of it caught on the other piece and held it, and he rested it against the good part of the sawed limb and climb up with the saw and started to saw it off close to the trunk, and we all watched him and was wishing he would let us do it, and all at once the limb broke off where he had sawed it almost in two, and away he went, and he certainly did holler. He crashed through a lot of little limbs, and then the middle of the ladder went against a big limb and the bottom of the ladder went up, and he was going pretty fast by then and had stopped hollering, and then when he was going to smash himself the bottom of the ladder stopped under another limb and my unkle was laying on the ladder way out over nothing, and then he began to inch back along the ladder and my mother and grandfather and ant and some of the neighbors were out, and when he got to the limb the ladder hung over he went past it, and then the bottom of the ladder came down and bumped the ground, and he slid down it and sot on the ground hard, and he had a scratch on his neck he said the saw done and was so scairt he was white.

My grandfather said he had heard of men setting out on a limb and sawing it off but he didn't think anyone ever done it. But no one can ever tell what an unkle will do. My unkle went in the house and laid down, and we took the ladders home.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

The Invitation to the Brixton House Party.

MARY had not meant to repeat her reference to Philip Veritzen, which I had forbidden her to make. I saw that in her flushed face and horrified eyes, as she clapped her hand over her mouth when she had finished her expression of wonderment over Mr Veritzen including her in the Christmas reconciliation by saying that if she had three guesses — She had cut herself short there, but the inference was plain, and I flushed miserably, for the remembrance of that scene in my little study with Philip Veritzen still had power to make me wince and to send waves of humiliation over me.

He had totally misunderstood the plea I was making for Noel and Mary had thought—and voiced the thought — that I meant I was heart-broken to see him. Philip Veritzen—fall short of my ideal of him! I still shivered under the unwelcome—even more repugnant—clasp of his arms remorselessly drawing me toward him as he promised to make amends to his son and Mary for the wrong he had done them, could still feel the wave of faintless, engulfing me, blotting out his hateful face and voice, and lifting mercifully with my husband's arms around me.

The "Madonna Motif"

Sorest spot of all in that remembrance was the consciousness that unwittingly I had secured that reconciliation of Noel with his father, which also included Mary, under distinctly false pretenses. He had thought that I wished it because of my interest in him. I knew him, however, to be a man of scrupulous regard for his word. It could not be possible that he meant to take his chagrin out upon Mary and to subject her again to the humiliation she suffered when the elder Veritzen was trying to effect a marriange between his son and the Princess Olina of Transvania.

I was helpless, however, as regarded the Veritzens. Noel I liked immensely, and meant always to befriend in any way possible. But his father—I still had to deal with him professionally—not lightly does one dismiss the biggest producer of Broadway when he has practically promised a production of one's first play. But ever again would I give him an opportunity to strike the personal note which had so annoyed me when I was actively in his employ, even if he wished to sound it. Lillian had assured me that he never would annoy me again with his romanticism, saying that "Phil never cared for the M donna motif," and that the arrival of my baby girl had put me definitely into a niche of his regard marked "respect and admiration only."

There was no way, now, therefore, that I could aid Mary—except—with the recollection of my errand and the remembrance of the old saying concerning the similarity of sauces for the gander and the goose, I stepped across to her, and took down from her lips the hand she had clapped over them.

No Harm Done

"I'll forgive you this time, Mary," I said, smiling, "if you'll promise to forget Noel and his new—what was it you called her?"——

"A knock-kneed, bow-legged—I think it was bow-legged—it ought to have been anyway—vamp in capitals," Mary replied emphatically, but with relief I failed to hear the aggrieved anger which had been in her voice before. She had talked it out of her system, I said to myself, and was probably ready for the thing I wished to broach to her.

"I'm not going to discuss Noel with you at all," I went on. "I think it's high time you gave yourself the opportunity to 'play around,' isn't that the correct expression?—with other young men for awhile. The reason I came in this morning was because of an invitation you have had to a house party."

"Yes, I know," she answered, with self-scorn in her voice. "A house party up at Brixton's. Marion told me about it—I hadn't opened my letter yet. I always wait a little while, and save it, while Marion tears hers open the first thing. And, prize sap that I was, not having opened my letter as I told you, I did the patient Griselda act to perfection, and told Marion I thought I ought not to go to the party because Noel wasn't here to go with me! If you can tie that or even put a loop around it, I'd like to see you do the feat! And Noel reading poetry to that——"

"Don't call her any more names," I begged her, laughing. "If they were stones, she'd be buried under them by now."

"I wish they were," Mary replied with a vicious little snap of her teeth. Then her mouth relaxed into a grin, and I knew that her tantrum was over.

"There's no harm done," I said hurriedly. "The invitation is still open. Both Mr. and Mrs. Underwood are most anxious for you to go with Marion. In fact, they will not permit her to go at all unless you can go with her and keep a general eye on her."

A sapient look came into Mary's keen eyes.

"I suppose that's on general principles, also an account of darling Uncle Charlie Owen."
